“Music paints pictures that only the minds eye can see.” (Sun Ra)

Dave Burrell (Friday, October 15)

Burrell’s playing encompasses the breadth of black piano expression. A first call pianist in the ground breaking late 60’s ensembles of Archie Shepp,

Marion Brown, Pharoah Sanders, Sunny Murray, Clifford Thornton, and Sonny Sharrock qualifies Burrell as one of the most brilliant creative voices on the music scene today. Burrell has uniquely singular approach to the piano. It's an approach that radically challenges traditional modes of piano playing while innovatively expanding the instrument's capacities. Burrell's prowess as a composer has influenced contemporary avant-garde artists across genres and disciplines.

Matthew Shipp (Sunday, October 24)

Sharing music from his latest '4D' recording, Shipp is one of today's most original and diverse piano voices, with collaborations including reedist David S. Ware, bassist William Parker, guitarist Joe Morris, DJ Spooky, and lyricist El-P. DC is only one of 4 cities where '4D' is being presented. This performance will be preceded at 6:30 with an on stage discussion with Matthew Shipp on artist/activist Jean Genet, as moderated by WPFW's Thomas Stanley.

Tracie Morris (Sunday, November 14)

Few poets explore sound and words as creatively within music. The trio features Cassandra Wilson associate Marvin Sewell on guitar.
